SOLID AND SILENT.

A Pledge Taken By the Striking Hungarians

IN THE DISTURBED COKE REGION.

One of the Strikers Badly Beaten For Saying That the Strike Was Lost—Foreigners Arriving By the Carload to Take the Strikers' Places—The Labor Situation at Various Other Places.

SCOTTDALE, Pa., May 3.—During the Painter mass-meeting of strikers Saturday afternoon a Hungarian, who declared that the strike was lost, was seized by the strikers and badly beaten with old shoes and clubs. The crowd compelled the Hungarian to give a solemn pledge that he would remain "solid and silent." The action of the strikers at the mass-meeting would indicate that they are again becoming excited. The crowd had gone to Painter fully determined upon stopping operations at that plant, and were making angry threats against the workingmen, and were only swerved from their purpose by addresses by Secretary Barrett and other leaders who counselled the strikers to observe the law and endeavor by persuasion to induce the men to return to the strikers' ranks.

Of the 13,000 members of the labor organization, not over 600 are at work. The balance of the 3,000 persons, claimed to be at work, are made up almost wholly of imported and unexpected workmen.

Secretary Parker distributed $1,200 to the hungry families of the strikers in the region Saturday.

Saturday night Police Officer Gray arrested a Slav striker. The officer was at once surrounded by a mob intent upon rescuing their companion. One of the mob drew a revolver, and a riot was narrowly averted. Gray held on to his man and kept the mob back until assistance arrived.

The Poles celebrated the one hundredth anniversary of the adoption of their constitution by a parade and meeting here yesterday. Over 3,000 persons took in the demonstration.

Between 6,000 and 7,000 new men are to be brought to the region to replace the strikers, if necessary. This statement comes from a trustworthy source. Carloads have arrived during the past week, and the influx continues. It is said that one hundred Italians were imported into Jimtown on Saturday on account of the unexpected strike of the employes there. Labor leaders are striving diligently to get them to leave the region, and have succeeded to some degree.

The evictions of striking tenements will be renewed throughout the region, and it is estimated that before the week is over 600 families will be homeless.

Monster mass meetings were held yesterday at Jimtown and Hutchison, with the view of persuading new workmen to unite with them.

Evictions to Continue.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Pa., May 4.—Twelve families were evicted at Morewood Saturday. Four hundred eviction notices expired in this district this week. It is now the general opinion that the strike is about ended in the vicinity of Uniontown. It is said that a secret ballot was taken Saturday by the strikers at Red Stone works. All but four ballots declared in favor of returning to work at the company's terms.

The citizens of Fayette county are very indignant at the importation of so large a number of Italians. They are considered very undesirable neighbors. They spend no money in the stores and are very inefficient in coke making.

Labor Situation in Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, May 4.—Of the 3,000 carpenters in this district who struck for eight hours and an increase in wages, 1,356 are working to-day on their terms.

All the miners of the Pittsburg district have returned to work, their scale having been adjusted.

The carpenters in this city are rather on the fence in regard to their scale for eight hours. Saturday afternoon official notice was received from the parent organization that the Pittsburg strike was not authorized, and was therefore repudiated. This means they will receive no aid from the organization, and must fight it out alone, if fight at all.

Affairs in New York.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Sunday in this city was not a day of rest for the strikers. The men met in saloons and on the corners and discussed the situation. They say they will not give in to the bosses. The Central Labor union held a meeting in Clarendon hall in the afternoon and delegates from a great many trades unions were present. Resolutions were passed upholding the strikers.

The boss framers also held a meeting and decided to advertise for 700 men. They laughed at the report that twenty-seven of their number had signed an agreement with the strikers. A general meeting of bosses will be held to-night.

Chicago Cigarmakers Will Strike.

CHICAGO, May 4.—The 1,700 union cigarmakers of Chicago, members of Nos. 14, 15 and 227, were instructed at a closed meeting held Friday night and will go on strike this morning at 8 o'clock. For a few hours, at least, there will be 1,700 cigarmakers on a strike in Chicago. Instruction has been given each member to appear at his place of employment as usual this morning, but to quit work at 8 o'clock and report at strike headquarters the condition of affairs in his shop. If in any case the employer sees fit to grant the scale of pay asked for his men will be allowed to return to work at once.

Labor Demonstration in St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, May 4.—The trades and labor unions held a demonstration and picnic at Lindell park Sunday afternoon. The brass finishers, painters, electric linemen and various other trades met at their respective halls and marched to the picnic grounds 5,000 strong. The afternoon was devoted to speech making on the eight-hour question by noted agitators and the evening to dancing.

Successful Cigarmakers.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 4.—The cigar manufacturers Saturday virtually agreed to the men's demand for an increase in pay ranging from fifty cents to $1 per 1,000.

LOSSES BY FIRE.

A Destructive Fire at Altoona, Pa.—Fires at Other Places.

ALTOONA, Pa., May 4.—A fire which started shortly after 1 o'clock Saturday morning burned the Altoona Hardware company's store and warehouse. The Rising Sun and Belna hotels, the former a two-story and the latter a three-and-a half story building, together with their sheds and stables; gutted the upper story of the Nickle Plate restaurant. The flames then caught on the roof of William McMurray's large dry goods house and later on the roof of McCord's four-story brick boarding house. At this point the fire was extinguished after the stock on the fourth floor of the McMurray building had been badly damaged.

H. M. Mitchell, a boarder at McCord's house, packed his trunk before the fire had reached that point and gave instructions as to its disposal. He then started across the street. He was seen to stagger and then fell dead from heart failure brought on by the excitement. The guests in the hotels were gotten out safely, but a great many lost all their effects.

While the above mentioned fire was taking place the large sale and exchange stables of the Whitehall hotel were burned. During the fire the law office of B. Greevy was broken into and robbed of a number of valuable papers, and it is thought that the incendiary, who undoubtedly started the fires was implicated in the robbery. On account of the absence from the city of several of the heavy losers it is impossible to get the exact loss, but it is estimated at from $80,000 to $90,000, of which amount the Altoona Hardware company will lose between $30,000 to $40,000 on buildings and stock. Insurance not known.

Town Without a Fire Department.

LYLE, Minn., May 4.—Fire started Saturday morning in the Wheeler house, a vacant hotel, and in less than three hours had wiped out property valued at $140,000. The town was entirely without fire protection, and the flames spread so rapidly that before assistance from neighboring towns could reach here, the fire had done most of its work. The Union depot, belonging to the Chicago, St. Paul and Kansas City, and the Illinois Central, together with the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul depot and two grain elevators were consumed.

Among the principal losers are Lund & Lundhead, dealers in general merchandise, loss $20,000; insurance $12,000; John Myber, general store, loss $18,000; insurance $10,000; A. J. Knudson, hardware, loss $22,000, no insurance. The Commercial hotel, and Hart & Connor's saloon, Aren's meat market, McCarthy Brothers' saloon and a number of residences were burned. There is a strong suspicion that it was the work of an incendiary.

Opera House Burned.

TYRONE, Pa., May 4.—Conrad's opera house was destroyed by fire early Sunday morning. Templeton and Crawford's millinery store, and the establishment of Charles Conrad were also burned out. Loss $20,000. Partially insured. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Fire From Lightning.

HIGGINSVILLE, Mo., May 4.—At 7:30 Sunday morning lightning struck the flouring mills at Anllville, on the Missouri Pacific road. The building took fire and was completely destroyed with all the stock. There was no insurance, and the loss is estimated at $50,000.

Coffin Factory Destroyed.

NEW ORLEANS, May 4.—The Orleans Coffin Manufacturing establishment was destroyed by fire yesterday morning. Loss $20,000; fully insured.

SNOW STORM IN SOUTH DAKOTA.

It is Very Heavy, But No Great Amount of Damage Has Been Done.

CHAMBERLAIN, S. Dak., May 4.—Snow has been falling heavily for the past twenty-four hours and it still continues. All small grain is in the ground, and a great deal of it is up, but it is not believed that any material damage will be done.

At Huron a light snow storm prevailed during the afternoon yesterday, but did no injury to growing crops. The temperature is low and the wind northerly.

Death of an Old Newspaper Man.

PITTSBURG, May 4.—Thomas E. Hewitt, one of Pittsburg's oldest newspaper men, died at his home in the East End early Sunday morning of consumption. During his life Mr. Hewitt has done work in almost every large city in the United States. His body will be cremated at Samson's crematory on Wednesday.

A Welcome Rain.

READING, Pa., May 4.—A heavy fall of rain, lasting two hours, yesterday morning, extinguished the forest fires on the Blue Mountains which burned three days and devastated over 1,000 acres of timber land.

Fatal Stabbing Over Cards.

HONDURAS' TRADE.

It Can Be Directed to American Merchants.

A FEW POINTERS FURNISHED.

The Bureau of American Republics at Washington Receives Some Valuable Suggestions Which are Furnished to the Public—Increase of Salaries of United States Officials—Business Done in the Census Office—Other Washington News.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The bureau of the American republics furnishes the following extract from a private letter from an old merchant in Honduras, that contains important suggestions to exporters in this country: "There exists" he writes, "another reason that could be well added to those you give for the failure of the merchants of the United States to capture the Latin-American trade, that is they don't send out reliable agents who can speak the language, and are well acquainted with the habits, tastes and wants of the people. English and German houses avail themselves of the services of such men, and the consequence is they get the business.

"As an instance of this, a few months since a commercial traveler came to this city, and here represented several manufacturing and shipping houses, three German and two English. He stayed in the city two weeks, and sold $15,000 worth of goods; he had been about twelve months on his journey through Venezuela, Columbia, Costa Rica, Nicaragua and Honduras, and in that time he had sold more than one million dollars worth of goods, as he proved to me by his order books. He was going from here to Salvador, Guatemala and Mexico, and said he expected by the time he reached the end of his route to have sold $300,000 more. The great requisites for such a man, are, ability to speak and write the Spanish language, knowledge of the tastes, wants, manners and customs of the people, knowledge of the patterns, styles, classes and values of the goods suited to the various markets.

"I have never heard of an American commercial traveler visiting this part of Honduras, and many that I have met in Mexico have an imperfect knowledge of the language, manners and customs of the people and principles of business existing in these countries, and a complete ignorance of the style of goods most saleable. I think it would be a most valuable and useful addition to your bureau if you could establish a sample room, or as it might be more properly termed a commercial museum, to display samples, patterns, specimens and photographs of all manufactured articles and goods most saleable in all the different countries and districts."

Increase of Salaries.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The clerk of the senate committee on appropriations has just made public a statement of the increases and reductions in salaries made under the appropriation bills of the last session of the last congress, and of the additional appropriations made for newly created offices. From this statement it appears that salaries were increased in 110 cases, the total increase aggregating $110,058, while other increases aggregating $960, were made in the salaries of offices not specified. The increases were principally in the offices of circuit judges, the judicial increase being $95,5-0. At the same time salaries were cut down in four cases, the net saving being $1,820.

The new offices created were 597 and the increase in appropriations made by these specific cases was $868,867; in cases where the offices are not specified the total increase by the creation of new offices was $1,495,851.50. The total reduction by the omission of certain offices was $141,484.80, of which $135,914.80 represented the reduction of 125 offices omitted. The largest increase was in the treasury department, where the creation of the immigration bureau made an increase of $153,600. The creation of the additional district judgeships and of the land court raised the judicial appropriation by $241,700.

Rumored Change in the French Ministry.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—M. Roustan, the French minister, still remains without any intelligence from his government that he has been transferred. The post at Madrid is an embassy, and as the French minister of Belgium is ahead of him for promotion, M. Roustan's friends are disinclined to credit the reports of his change.

Count Montholon, who it was announced would be transferred from Athens to Washington, comes of a most illustrious family. His father, Marquis De Montholon, was a close friend of Napoleon I, and accompanied him to St. Helena in his exile, living with him at Longwood. While there he wrote at the emperor's own dictation, Napoleon's memoirs. After the death of Napoleon, he returned to France and remained true to the dynasty. Count Montholon has served in the diplomatic service at Berne, Brussels and Buenos Ayres.

Business of the Census Office.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The business of the census office is now in such condition that Superintendent Porter will take advantage of the opportunity to make an extended tour of the northwest. Accompanied by Mrs. Porter, he left Washington last night, going direct to Chicago, where he will remain several days as the guest of his brother, Mr. Washington Porter. Mr. Porter will stop at all the principal cities en route to the Pacific coast and will spend considerable time with relatives in San Francisco. He will also travel through Puget sound. He expects to return to Washington during the early part of June.

Law Not Violated.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Assistant Secretary Spaulding has telegraphed the collector of customs at Wilmington, Cal., that there was no reason for his interference in the matter of the transfer of certain arms and ammunition from the American schooner Robert And Minnie to a transport for reshipment to South America.

TRIP TO THE CAPITAL.

The Presidential Party Pay a Flying Visit to Sacramento.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—The presidential party paid a flying visit to the state capital Saturday. They were met at Davisville by a reception committee from Sacramento and escorted to that city. As the train drew into the beautifully decorated depot in Sacramento a salute of twenty-one guns was fired, and an immense crowd greeted the president with cheers. Mayor Comstock spoke a few words of welcome, and the party then entered carriages and were driven to the capitol. Representatives of the Grand Army posts acted as a guard of honor, and were accompanied by a procession of militia and the Society of Pioneers.

Thousands of people had assembled in Capitol park, and all the school children were drawn up in line on either side of the broad walk leading up to the grand stand, and as the president was escorted through the line he was pelted with flowers. Mayor Comstock introduced Governor Markham, who, after a few remarks, presented the president, who paid a glowing tribute to California's pioneers.

Postmaster General Wanamaker was not present, which was a great disappointment to the employes of the post-office, as they had arranged to present him with beautiful silver and floral souvenirs. After the speech-making the president held a short reception in Governor Markham's office, after which the party were escorted back to the train and left for Oakland, the battery firing another salute as the train left.

The presidential party visited Oakland in the afternoon. They also paid a visit to the State university and returned to this city about 4 o'clock.

In the evening the president attended a banquet given in his honor by the Union League club. The club presented President Harrison with a beautifully enameled solid gold fac-simile of the card of invitation to the reception.

President Harrison took a much needed rest yesterday. In the morning he attended the first congregational church. The rest of the day he remained in his rooms. In the evening he crossed over to Oakland where his train was waiting, and shortly after midnight started for Portland, Ore.

Postmaster General Wanamaker and Secretary Rusk were entertained by several Chinese merchants Saturday night. They then started on a tour of Chinatown, but after a short stay in the Chinese theater Secretary Rusk succumbed to the din and obnoxious odors and the rest of the trip was abandoned, causing disappointment among many Chinese who had prepared to receive the guests.

Dispatches Detailing Important Happenings.

BIG EMBEZZLEMENT IN TOLEDO.

The Clerk of the Police Court Confesses to Be Twenty or Twenty-Five Thousand Dollars Short in His Accounts With the City—He Is Arrested and Lodged in Jail on a Warrant Sworn Out By the Mayor. Other Buckeye Dispatches.

TOLEDO, O., May 4.—At 9:30 Saturday night William H. Cook, clerk of the police court, was arrested in his office on a warrant sworn out by Mayor Emmick, charging him with embezzling $10,000. While Detective Speere, a personal friend, was reading the warrant in a husky voice, the wife of Clerk Cook came into the room and bravely tried to help her husband stand the blow.

Clerk Cook has been one of the most popular Republicans in Toledo, was first lieutenant of the famous Toledo cadets, and secretary of the Republican committee. The books are now being examined, and it is not known how far into the thousands the shortage will run. Cook has been claiming to his friends that all would come out right, but Saturday he broke down and confessed to the mayor that he was short in his accounts, and could not say how much it might be, $20,000 or $25,000. The city solicitor, mayor, chief of police, police judge and all officials who have to deal with the matter are warm personal friends of Mr. Cook.

Beneficial Order Collapses.

CLEVELAND, O., May 4.—The Cleveland Savings and Loan association doing business on the beneficial order plan, has collapsed. The association was one of those peculiar organizations agreeing to pay big returns for small investments. Its prospectus stated that bonds would be redeemed at amounts ranging from $200 to $880 within a limit of five years. The amount paid in was much less. J. C. Maudline, of Baltimore, enlisted local capital in the organization, and J. B. Heller, J. H. Sampliner, W. E. Craig, A. V. Kurtz and R. F. Jones were elected directors, and W. B. Baine, a prominent politician, president. Baine resigned some three months ago. The society was prosperous and soon had 500 members reduced by lapses to 387. Up to date it had paid off twenty-two bonds.

For the last two months it had been in a shaky condition and finally gave up altogether. An agreement has been reached to pay up eighty-five cents on the dollar of the funds left, and it is not likely that individual bondholders will lose more than $30 on an average. The officers of the concern declare that the rage for making such investments with concerns agreeing to pay in quicker time is what killed them.

Children Terribly Mangled.

MARTIN'S FERRY, O., May 4.—Saturday afternoon an unknown miscreant gave the three little boys, James and Milton Turney and Charles Wilson, all under 9 years of age, a loaded dynamite cartridge. The boys played with the cartridge, and it finally exploded. All three of the boys were blown over sixty feet and frightfully mangled. The Wilson boy had his breast and abdomen torn open and a leg badly lacerated. He will die. One of the Turneys will lose his sight. The other is burned to a crisp on his arms and body, and cannot recover.

British Syndicate Fails to Come to Time.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 4.—The option of purchase given by a number of mills and furnaces here to A. B. Godfrey, representing an English syndicate, expired last Thursday. Mr. Godfrey was seen in New York the past week by an iron operator here interested in the deal, and said that he was expecting advices every day to close it up. The iron manufacturers here who have options are satisfied that nothing will done, and that no change in ownership is probable.

Fears of a Coke Famine.

CLEVELAND, May 4.—The present coke strike in Pennsylvania is causing a scarcity of coke in this city that is likely to cause a suspension of work at the big rolling mills in South Cleveland. Many departments of these mills, and especially the Bessemer steel plant, use coke. The steel mill is already closed, and other departments, it is said, cannot run longer than until Wednesday. If the expected shut-down comes it will throw 5,000 men out of employment.

Enticed by Girls.

CANTON, O., May 4.—Ora Hilscshman and Ed. Bolander were invited out Friday night by two girl friends for a walk. After reaching the city limits the girls asked to be excused and left. The men were then attacked by several unknown parties. Bolander fled, but Hilscshman stood his ground and was assaulted in a brutal manner and robbed of his gold watch and all his money. It is thought that maybe it was a put up job on the part of the girls.

Barber, the match manufacturer; Joseph Kirkam, of England, and other capitalists have completed the organization of the Kirkam Art and Decorative Tile company, whose works—the largest of the kind in the world—are to be located at Barberton, immediately south of this city. HE WANTS ONE-FOURTH

Instead of One-Four-Hundredth of Haskell's Two Millions.

CHICAGO, May 4.—A bill has been filed in the circuit court by Frederick Haskell, involving an estate worth $2,000,000, on the ground of fraud. Frederick Haskell died in May, 1890, and Frederick T. Haskell and Henry T. Haskell were named as executors of the will.

It is alleged by complainant that Frederick Haskell, at the time of executing the instrument, was not of sound mind and memory, but on the contrary was in his dotage, and his mind so impaired as to render him wholly incapable of making any just distribution of his estate. Henry T. Haskell and Frederick T. Haskell, the half-brother, are accused of using many undue arts and fraudulent practices, and resorting to falsehood and misrepresentation to induce testator to execute the will in their favor, and thus receive the largest share.

For some months, it is claimed, the executors falsely deceived Frederick Haskell by pretending great friendship for him, and by flattering him in his old age. These statements are said to have been maliciously made in order to influence testator to give to the executors nearly one-half of his property.

Complainant claims to be entitled to one-half as much as Fred T. Haskell, and one-fourth as much as Henry T. Haskell, and claims further that it was wholly through their fraudulent devices that he was cut off with so small a bequest, he receiving only $5,000. For these reasons the court is asked to set aside the will and make a distribution equally among the heirs at law.

THE tobacco raising industry in Ohio is no small affair. The statement is made that Ohio raises one-twelfth of the product of the United States.

THE man that helps the city helps himself, but the opposite is not always true. There are plenty of fellows in Marion who are abundantly helping themselves and doing absolutely no good for the city.

THE recent census of England shows a greater per cent. of growth in cities and decreases in many instances in rural districts. So it can't be the tariff that is to blame for thinning out the villagers and agriculturists.

THE news is quite regular from abroad about English tin plate factories closing down. It must begin to grow painfully apparent to the British and their American allies that this country can make her own tin.

THERE is some question as to which is the more popular dodge for a man who gets short in finances nowadays—to be robbed or crazed by the grip. Old Hutch, the Chicago speculator, gives evidence that he was robbed at his own game.

THE Hopley-Cahill suits at Bucyrus have been settled, the latter paying the costs in the civil suit against him, as well as the criminal suits against Hopley. There is regret that Cahill should get off so easily for his cowardly attack on an aged gentleman.

MANY of the newspapers over the state are now publishing the proposed amendment to the constitution of Ohio that shall alter the plan of taxation. The publication is a decided snap that we look upon with a tinge of regret. The STAR is not in it because it is not an "fishal" organ.

THE Cleveland Press says while McKinley is prophesying that the "tariff will not be changed in ten years," the Farmers' Alliance is preparing to send out 35,000 lecturers to discuss economics. Some folks are going to be fooled before very long." The Press should tell who it is that will be fooled.

THE farmers' proposed trust on wheat to force the price to $1.25 before any sales will be made, is not in accordance with the Alliance platform. Notwithstanding it makes some higher living, all wish the farmers may realize the price without the trust. Somehow or other high priced wheat doesn't affect the price of flour much, anyway.

THE Supreme Court has decided that bonding a city for funds to promote industries is unlawful. But it is popular and doing wondrous good for many heretofore sleepy villages, and if it doesn't pay in the long run, all appearances are deceiving. After all, the right kind of a city doesn't need to raise its industrial funds that way.

THE Toledo Blade is one of those frank, sensible papers that thinks no man need conceal his admiration for Blaine because he is in Harrison's cabinet, and yet the Blade is a warm admirer of the president. The idea that a Republican must go behind a barn to yell for the greatest living statesman is all foolishness. Ben Harrison wouldn't do it himself.

THE New York Mail and Express tells of a touching incident that was noted at the funeral of the late Judge Nelson, at Poughkeepsie, when his old coachman, who had been in the judge's employ for over twenty years, insisted on driving the hearse. He had driven for his employer during all his years of life and happiness, and was determined to perform this last service.

AFTER all the street sprinkler nuisance is a pretty desirable one. It is nice to have the waterworks connections for sprinkling purposes, but unfortunately all do not have them but rather just enough have them to keep the sprinkler out of business. The experience of other cities goes to show that time doesn't improve the situation either. Perhaps when we get paved streets we shall have less annoyance from dust.

THE fact that during last year 1,000 new routes of postal service were added to the general system and expenses reduced $7,000 shows that John Wanamaker is making the best postmaster general that the country has ever had. There has been a good deal of political rancour of business John, but he and his administration are all right. The only trouble is that he and Clarkson chopped off a good many heads that were too fastidious about the "offensive partisanship" of their predecessors

HUMDRUM ABOLISHED.

SERMON PREACHED SUNDAY, MAY 3, BY REV. T. DE WITT TALMAGE.

A Stirring Exhortation to Christians to Make Their Religion Lively, Based Upon the Visit of the Queen of Sheba to Solomon, the Great King.

BROOKLYN, May 3.—The capacity of the New Tabernacle was fully tested this morning by the vast audience which assembled to hear Dr. Talmage in his handsome and spacious church. He is now preaching there morning and evening, and The Christian Herald services in New York have been discontinued. This has caused much regret to many people in that city. A memorial was prepared and signed by influential citizens asking Dr Talmage to continue the services. He could not see his way to comply at the time, but, as he was evidently impressed by the warmth of the welcome given him in the metropolis, and deeply moved by the good that was done, it is not improbable that in the near future he will again be found duplicating his usefulness by ministering to two congregations, as he has been doing during the past seven months. His subject this morning was "Humdrum Abolished," and his text II Chronicles IX, 9: "Of spices great abundance; neither was there any such spice as the Queen of Sheba gave King Solomon."

A WONDERFUL BUILDING.

What is that building out yonder glittering in the sun? Have you not heard? It is the house of the forest of Lebanon. King Solomon has just taken to it his bride, the princess of Egypt. You see the pillars of the portico, and a great tower, adorned with one thousand shields of gold, hung on the outside of the tower—five hundred of the shields of gold manufactured at Solomon's order, five hundred were captured by David, his father, in battle. See how they blaze in the noonday sun!

Solomon goes up the ivory stairs of his throne between twelve lions in statuary, and sits down on the back of the golden bull, the head of the bronze beast turned toward the people. The family and attendants of the king are so many that the caterers of the place have to provide every day one hundred sheep and thirteen oxen, besides the birds and the venison. I hear the stamping and pawing of four thousand fine horses in the royal stables. There were important officials who had charge of the work of gathering the straw and the barley for these horses. King Solomon was an early riser, tradition says, and used to take a ride out at daybreak; and when in his white apparel, behind the swiftest horses of all the realm, and followed by mounted archers in purple, as the cavalcade dashed through the streets of Jerusalem I suppose it was something worth getting up at five o'clock in the morning to look at.

Solomon was not like some of the kings of the present day—crowned imbecility. All the splendor of his palace and retinue was eclipsed by his intellectual power. Why, he seemed to know everything. He was the first great naturalist the world ever saw. Peacocks from India strutted the basaltic walk, and apes chattered in the trees and deer stalked the parks, and there were aquariums with foreign fish and aviaries with foreign birds, and tradition says these birds were so well tamed that Solomon might walk clear across the city under the shadow of their wings as they hovered and flitted about him.

SOLOMON AND HIS RIDDLES.

More than this, he had a great reputation for the conundrums and riddles that he made and guessed. He and King Hiram, his neighbor, used to sit by the hour and ask riddles, each one paying in money if he could not answer or guess the riddle. The Solomonic navy visited all the world, and the sailors, of course, talked about the wealth of their king, and about the riddles and enigmas that he made and solved, and the news spread until Queen Balkis, away off south, heard of it, and sent messengers with a few riddles that she would like to have Solomon solve, and a few puzzles which she would like to have him find out. She sent among other things to King Solomon a diamond with a hole so small that a needle could not penetrate it, asking him to thread that diamond. And Solomon took a worm and put it at the opening in the diamond, and the worm crawled through, leaving the thread in the diamond.

The queen also sent a goblet to Solomon, asking him to fill it with water that did not pour from the sky, and that did not rush out from the earth, and immediately Solomon put a slave on the back of a swift horse and galloped him around and around the park until the horse was nigh exhausted, and from the perspiration of the horse the goblet was filled. She also sent King Solomon five hundred boys in girls' dress, and five hundred girls in boys' dress, wondering if he would be acute enough to find out the deception. Immediately Solomon, when he saw them wash their faces, knew from the way they applied the water that it was all a cheat.

THE VISIT OF THE QUEEN.

Queen Balkis was so pleased with the acuteness of Solomon that she said, "I'll just go and see him for myself." Yonder it comes—the cavalcade—horses and dromedaries, chariots and charioteers, jingling harness and clattering hoofs, and blazing shields, and flying ensigns, and clapping cymbals. The place is saturated with the perfume. She brings cinnamon and saffron and calamus and frankincense and all manner of sweet spices. As the retinue sweeps through the gate the armed guard inhale the aroma. "Ha!" cry the charioteers, as the wheels grind the gravel in front of the pillared portico of the king. Queen Balkis alights in an atmosphere bewitched with perfume. As the dromedaries are drawn up to the king's storehouses and the bales of camphire are unloaded, and the boxes of spices are opened, the purveyors of the palace discover what my text announces, "Of spices great abundance, neither was there any such spice as the Queen of Sheba gave King Solomon."

Well, my friends, you know that all the elegant scene is but a type of Christ, and I make the Queen of Sheba a type of every true convert, and I shall take the two accounts of saving that she (the queen) and Solomon are mutually astonished which the Queen of Sheba brought King Solomon are mutually astonished at the sweet spices of [illegible] Christianity and [illegible] to be, in addition to all [illegible] real to [illegible] other [illegible] to compare the first [illegible] but never [illegible] myrrh. It is a [illegible] of [illegible] sparkle of [illegible] of [illegible] Would I could [illegible] Queen Balkis [illegible] was wise to [illegible] Solomon! What many of us most need is to have the humdrum driven out of our life and the humdrum cast out of our religion. The American and English and Scottish church will die of humdrum unless there be a change.

An editor from San Francisco a few weeks ago, wrote me saying he was getting up for his paper a symposium from many clergymen, discussing among other things "Why do not people go to church?" and he wanted my opinion, and I gave it in one sentence, "People do not go to church because they cannot stand the humdrum." The fact is that most people have so much humdrum in their worldly calling that they do not want to have added the humdrum of religion. We need in all our sermons and exhortations and songs and prayers more of what Queen Balkis brought to Solomon—namely, more spice.

LIFE IS HUMDRUM.

The fact is that the duties and cares of this life, coming to us from time to time, are stupid often and inane and intolerable. Here are men who have been bartering and negotiating, climbing, pounding, hammering for twenty years, forty years, fifty years. One great long drudgery has their life been. Their face anxious, their feelings benumbed, their days monotonous. What is necessary to brighten up that man's life, and to sweeten that acid disposition, and to put sparkle into the man's spirits? The spicery of our holy religion. Why, if between the losses of life there dashed a gleam of an eternal gain; if between the betrayals of life there came the gleam of the undying friendship of Christ; if in dull times in business we found ministering spirits flying to and fro in our office and store and shop, everyday life, instead of being a stupid monotone, would be a glorious inspiration, penduluming between calm satisfaction and high rapture.

How any woman keeps house without the religion of Christ to help her is a mystery to me. To have to spend the greater part of one's life, as many women do, in planning for the meals, in stitching garments that will soon be rent again, and deploring breakages and supervising tardy subordinates and driving off dust that soon again will settle, and doing the same thing day in and day out, and year in and year out, until their hair silvers, and the back stoops, and the spectacles crawl to the eyes, and the grave breaks open under the thin sole of the shoe—oh, it is a long monotony! But when Christ comes to the drawing room, and comes to the kitchen, and comes to the nursery, and comes in the dwelling, then how cheery becomes all womanly duties. She is never alone now; Martha gets through fretting and joins Mary at the feet of Jesus.

All day long Deborah is happy because she can help Lapidoth; Hannah, because she can make a coat for young Samuel; Miriam, because she can watch her infant brother; Rachel, because she can help her father water the stock; the widow of Sarepta, because the cruse of oil is being replenished. O woman! having in your pantry a nest of boxes containing all kinds of condiments, why have you not tried in your heart and life the spicery of our holy religion? "Martha! Martha! thou art careful and troubled about many things; but one thing is needful, and Mary hath chosen that good part which shall not be taken away from her."

SOME RELIGION IS INSIPID.

I must confess that a great deal of the religion of this day is utterly insipid. There is nothing piquant or elevating about it. Men and women go around humming psalms in a minor key, and culturing melancholy, and their worship has in it more sighs than rapture. We do not doubt their piety. Oh, no. But they are sitting at a feast where the cook has forgotten to season the food. Everything is flat in their experience and in their conversation. Emancipated from sin and death and hell, and on their way to a magnificent heaven, they act as though they were trudging on toward an everlasting Botany bay. Religion does not seem to agree with them. It seems to catch in the windpipe and become a tight strangulation instead of an exhilaration.

All the infidel books that have been written, from Voltaire down to Herbert Spencer, have not done so much damage to our Christianity as lugubrious Christians. Who wants a religion woven out of the shadows of the night? Why go growling on your way to celestial enthronement? Come out of that cave and sit down in the warm light of the Sun of Righteousness. Away with your odes to melancholy and Hervey's "Meditations Among the Tombs."

Then let our songs abound,
And every tear be dry;
We're marching through Emmanuel's ground
To fairer worlds on high.

I have to say, also, that we need to put more spice and enlivenment in our religious teaching, whether it be in the prayer meeting, or in the Sabbath school, or in the church. We ministers need more fresh air and sunshine in our lungs and our heart and our head. Do you wonder that the world is so far from being converted when you find so little vivacity in the pulpit and in the pew? We want, like the Lord, to plant in our sermons and exhortations more lilies of the field. We want fewer rhetorical elaborations and fewer sesquipedalian words; and when we talk about shadows, we do not want to say adumbration; and when we mean queerness, we do not want to talk about idiosyncracies; or if a stitch in the back, we do not want to talk of lumbago, but in the plain vernacular preach that gospel which proposes to make all men happy, honest, victorious and free.

In other words, we want more cinnamon and less gentile. Let this be so in all the different departments of work to which the Lord calls us. Let us be plain. Let us be earnest. Let us be common sensical. When we talk to the people in a vernacular they can understand, they will be very glad to come and receive the truth we present. Would to God that Queen Balkis would drive her spice laden dromedaries into all our sermons and prayer meeting exhortations.

LIFE AND SPICE IN CHRISTIAN WORK.

More than that, we want more life and spice in our Christian work. The poor do not want so much to be groaned over as sung to. With the bread and medicines and the garments you give them, let there be an accompaniment of smiles and brisk encouragement. Do not stand and talk to them about the wretchedness of their abode, and the hunger of their looks, and the hardness of their lot. All they know it better than you can tell them. Show them the bright side of the things if there be any bright side. Tell them good times will come. Tell them that for the children of God there is an eternal rescue. Wake them out of their stolidity by an [illegible] Queen of Sheba [illegible] send in the spices.

There are two ways of feeding the poor. One is to come into their house with a look of elevated disgust, as much as to say "I don't see how you live here in this neighborhood. It is [illegible] makes me sick [illegible] and make the most of it." Another way is to go into the abode of the poor in a manner which seems to say "The blessed Lord sent me. He was poor himself. It is [illegible] for the food I am going [illegible] you than it is for the good [illegible] Coming in that spirit the [illegible] is as aromatic as the spikenard of the feet of Christ, and all the hovels in the alley will be fragrant with the spice.

We need more spice and enlivenment in our church music. Churches sit discussing whether they shall have choirs, or precentors, or organs, or bass viols, or cornets. I say, take that which will bring out the most inspiring music. If we had half as much zeal and spirit in our churches as we have in the songs of our Sabbath schools it would not be long before the whole earth would quake with the coming feet. Why, in most churches nine-tenths of the people do not sing, or they sing so feebly that the people at their elbows do not know they are singing. People mouth and mumble the praises of God; but there is not more than one out of a hundred who makes "a joyful noise" unto the Rock of Our Salvation. Sometimes, when the congregation forgets itself, and is all absorbed in the goodness of God or the glories of heaven, I get an intimation of what church music will be a hundred years from now, when the coming generation shall wake up to its duty.

WAKE UP.

I promise a high spiritual blessing to any one who will sing in church, and who will sing so heartily that the people all around cannot help but sing. Wake up! all the churches from Bangor to San Francisco and across Christendom. It is not a matter of preference, it is a matter of religious duty. Oh, for fifty times more volume of sound. German chorals in German cathedrals surpass us, and yet Germany has received nothing at the hands of God compared with America; and ought the acclaim in Berlin be louder than that in Brooklyn? Soft, long drawn out music is appropriate for the drawing room and appropriate for the concert, but St. John gives an idea of the sonorous and resonant congregational singing appropriate for churches when, in listening to the temple service of heaven, he says: "I heard a great voice, as the voice of a great multitude, and as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of mighty thunderings. Hallelujah, for the Lord God omnipotent reigneth."

Join with me in a crusade, giving me not only your hearts but the mighty uplifting of your voices, and I believe we can, through Christ's grace, sing fifty thousand souls into the kingdom of Christ. An argument they can laugh at, a sermon they may talk down, but a vast audience joining in one anthem is irresistible. Would that Queen Balkis would drive all her spice laden dromedaries into our church music. "Neither was there any such spice as the Queen of Sheba gave King Solomon."

Now, I want to impress this audience with the fact that religion is sweetness and perfume and spikenard and saffron and cinnamon and cassia and frankincense, and all sweet spices together. "Oh," you say, "I have not looked at it as such. I thought it was a nuisance; it had for me a repulsion; I held my breath as though it were malodor; I have been appalled at its advance; I have said, If I have any religion at all, I want to have just as little of it as is possible to get through with." Oh, what a mistake you have made, my brother. The religion of Christ is a present and everlasting redolence. It counteracts all trouble. Just put it on the stand beside the pillow of sickness. It catches in the curtains and perfumes the stifling air. It sweetens the cup of bitter medicine, and throws a glow on the gloom of the turned lattice. It is a balm for the aching side, and a soft bandage for the temple stung with pain.

It lifted Samuel Rutherford into a revelry of spiritual delight while he was in physical agonies. It helped Richard Baxter until, in the midst of such a complication of diseases as perhaps no other man ever suffered, he wrote "The Saint's Everlasting Rest." And it poured light upon John Bunyan's dungeon—the light of the shining gate of the shining city. And it is good for rheumatism, and for neuralgia, and for low spirits, and for consumption; it is the catholicon for all disorders. Yes, it will heal all your sorrows.

ALL HAVE HAD SORROW.

Why did you look so sad today when you came in? Alas! for the loneliness and the heartbreak, and the load that is never lifted from your soul. Some of you go about feeling like Macaulay when he wrote, "If I had another month of such days as I have been spending, I would be impatient to get down into my little narrow crib in the ground like a weary factory child." And there have been times in your life when you wished you could get out of this life. You have said, "Oh, how sweet to my lips would be the dust of the valley," and wished you could pail over you in your last slumber the coverlet of green grass and daisies. You have said: "Oh, how heartfully quiet it must be in the tomb. I wish I was there." I see all around about me widowhood and orphanage and childlessness; sadness, disappointment, perplexity. If I could ask all those to rise in this audience who have felt no sorrow and been buffeted by no disappointment—if I could ask all such to rise, how many would rise? Not one.

A widowed mother with her little child went west, hoping to get better wages there, and she was taken sick and died. The overseer of the poor got her body and put it in a box, and put it in a wagon, and started down the street toward the cemetery at full trot. The little child—the only child—ran after it through the streets, bare headed, crying, "Bring me back my mother! bring me back my mother!" And it was said that as the people looked on and saw her crying after that wagon in the box in the wagon said she loved on earth—it was [illegible] the whole village was in tears. And that is what a great many of you are doing—chasing the dead. Dear Lord, is there no appeasement [illegible] sorrow that I see about me? Yes, in midst of resurrection and heaven for [illegible] this scene of struggle and tears. Fury shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more, neither shall the sun light on them, nor any heat, for the Lamb [illegible] in the midst of the throne shall feed them [illegible] and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes.

Across the [illegible] of your soul as I across [illegible] I gladness shower [illegible] Queen Balkis, dromedaries [illegible] the palace [illegible] the house of God [illegible] of perfume [illegible] from the Lord [illegible] It is sweetness, [illegible] to [illegible] One [illegible] I [illegible] calm [illegible] had [illegible] sadness and all [illegible] house [illegible] such [illegible] Emmanuel's [illegible] on the church [illegible] Bible [illegible] multitude [illegible] struck twelve he arose [illegible] it his house.

and said. "Bless [illegible] are on the same old terms [illegible] night."

Oh, you sin [illegible] trouble pounded, here is [illegible] tion. Will you come [illegible] I cannot tell you what the Lord [illegible] I prefer so well as I can tell you [illegible] has not yet appear what we shall [illegible] Have you read of the Taj Mahal in it has in some respects the most [illegible] on earth? Twenty thousand men were twenty years in building it. It [illegible] millions of dollars. The walls are of marble, inlaid with carnelian from Bagdad, and turquois from Tarset, and jasper from the Punjaub, and amethyst from Persia, and all manner of precious stones. A traveler says that it seems to him like the shining of an enchanted castle of burnished silver. The walls are two hundred and forty-five feet high, and from the top of these springs a dome thirty more feet high, that dome containing the most wonderful echo the world has ever known, so that ever and anon travelers standing below with flutes and drums and harps are testing that echo, and the sounds from below strike up, and then come down, as it were, the voices of angels all around about the building. There is around it a garden of tamarind and langsan and palm and all the floral glories of the ransacked earth.

But that is only a tomb of a dead empress, and it is tame compared with the grandeurs which God has builded for your living and immortal spirit. Oh, home of the blessed! Foundations of gold! Arches of victory! Capstones of praise! And a dome in which there are echoing and reechoing the hallelujahs of the ages. And around about that mansion is a garden—the garden of God—and all the springing fountains are the bottled tears of the church in the wilderness, and all the crimson of flowers is the deep hue that was caught up from the carnage of earthly martyrdoms, and the fragrance is the prayer of all the saints, and the aroma puts into utter forgetfulness the cassia and the spikenard, and the frankincense, and the world renowned spices which the Queen Balkis, of Abyssinia, flung at the feet of King Solomon.

When shall these eyes thy heaven built walls
And pearly gates behold.
Thy bulwarks, with salvation strong,
And streets of shining gold?

Through obduracy on our part, and through the rejection of that Christ who makes heaven possible, I wonder if any of us will miss that spectacle? I fear! I fear! The queen of the south will rise up in judgment against this generation and condemn it, because she came from the uttermost parts of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon, and behold, a greater than Solomon is here! May God grant that through your own practical experience you may find that religion's ways are ways of pleasantness, and that all her paths are paths of peace—that it is perfume now and perfume forever. And there was an abundance of spice; "neither was there any such spice as the queen of Sheba gave to King Solomon."

Origin of "Up Salt River."

The following derivation of the slang phrase "Rowed up Salt river," to express the condition of a defeated candidate for office, is thus explained by Bayard Taylor: "Formerly there were extensive salt works on Salt river, Ohio, a short distance from its mouth. The laborers employed in them were a set of athletic, belligerent fellows who soon became known far and wide for their achievements in the pugilistic line. Hence it became common for the boatmen on the Ohio, when one of their number became refractory, to say to him, 'We'll row you up Salt river,' when, of course, the burly salt men would have the handling of him. By a natural figure of speech, the expression was applied to political candidates—first, I believe, in the presidential campaign of 1840." A better explanation of the phrase than that given by Mr. Taylor above seems to be that in the early days the mouth of Salt river was a favorite stronghold of the river pirates, who preyed on the commerce of the Ohio, and rowed their plunder up Salt river.

A friend suggests a third probable derivation of the phrase. He says that he has heard it applied to defeated candidates as far back as 1833, and that it originated in 1832, when Henry Clay, as candidate for the presidency, had an engagement to speak at Louisville, Ky. He had employed a boatman to row him up the Ohio. Now this boatman was a Jackson Democrat; he pretended to have lost his way, and instead of rowing up the Ohio turned into Salt river. This caused Clay much delay, for he did not reach Louisville until the day after election.—St. Louis Republic.

After a Match.

The average person notices the arrangement of a room surprisingly little. Its dimensions and the relative positions of the furniture may seem to be familiar to him, but in reality they seldom are. The way to become convinced of this is to hunt for something in a match for instance, in the dark.

Yes; have the mantel, and make a grab where you imagine the match safe stands. Down goes a piece of bric-a-brac to the floor.

More care is used. You find the end of the mantel, and run your hand along the marble slab. Off goes a vase or two. You strike the clock; you've got it. No, it's on the other side. Not there! Ah, then it's on the table.

After running against the stove and tripping over the chair, you find—the sofa. Keep cool and take your bearings. The table is north of the sofa, and the furniture east and west, north, therefore, is in front of you. Now you have it. That article that dropped to the floor sounded like the match safe. But it's the ink well, and your fingers are dyed with a color warranted not to fade.

A bright idea—the stove. You turn your knuckles and warp your patience, but you secure a light. And the match safe! It is on the mantel, not in front of the clock—the only place you didn't search.—Atlanta Argus.

A Correct Quotation.

A candidate was being examined by four professors. Feeling extremely nervous his memory failed him several times. At last one of the professors, growing impatient, thundered out, "Why, you cannot quote a single passage of Scripture correctly!"

"Yes, I can!" exclaimed the candidate. "I just happen to remember a passage in the Revelation. 'And I lifted up my eyes and I beheld four great beasts!'"—Dresdener Anzeiger.

Doctors' Bills.

Nearly all diseases originate from inaction of the liver, and this especially the case with chills and fever, intermittent fevers, and malarial diseases. How to Succeed.

This is the great problem of life which few satisfactorily solve. Some fail because of poor health, others want of luck, but the majority from deficient grit—want of nerve. They are nervous, irresolute, changeable, easily get the blues and make the spirits down to keep the spirits up," thus wasting money, time, opportunity and nerve force. The Season's Pet.

Full soon along the beach we'll see
The summer girl so lightly tripping,
Or on the long board walk anon
With airy grace will she be skipping.

And as she steps along so gay,
With easy and untroubled mind,
Some one, alas! will hello out.
"Say, miss, your necktie's up behind."

Oliver Wendell Holmes.

When asked if all diseases were curable if treated early, said "Yes, but some diseases began two hundred years ago." Precisely—no one knows when scrofula and specific diseases began. We only know that we inherit skin diseases, king's evil, rheumatism, boils, abscesses, white swellings, etc., and the medical world is just learning that Cactus Blood Cure is the one only infallible vegetable neutralizer of those blood taints. Mr. Samuels, of Dayton, O., writes that words cannot express his gratitude for the good your Persian Couch Syrup has done my daughter in a case of la grippe, in its most aggravated form, which produced an incessant coughing day and night. Not Like the Rolling Stone.

"All things come to him who waits"—
To him who patiently doth while
The time away
Till fortune may
Bestow her recompensing smile.

"All things come to him who waits,"
And knows no petty fear of loss:
In just this slip
Men lose their grip,
And all things come—especially moss.

C. A. Allen, superintendent of the N. Y., P. and O., was in the city today inspecting the Shields' car coupler. An exhibition was made of the same on the Erie's side tracks, near the Huber works this afternoon.

The Northampton, Mass., Herald, in speaking of Miss Charlotte M. Allen's monologue, "Switzerland," says: "Those who were so fortunate as to be present in City Hall last evening, were entertained by one of the most originally attractive pleasures that the broad repertoire of public entertainments now furnishes anywhere." At the Presbyterian church Wednesday evening of this week.

The Columbus Journal of Sunday says editorially: "The Guernsey Times suggests to the Republicans of Marion and Morrow counties, constituting under the new apportionment a joint representative district, to nominate W. L. Phillips, of Morrow county, for representative, and says that Mr. Phillips, representing Morrow county in the present legislature, has distinguished his trust in so able, dignified and conscientious a manner that it believes he can be re-elected from the joint district, notwithstanding the latter has a Democratic majority of about 300. The editor of the Times is himself a member of the present legislature, and in thus commending Mr. Phillips he knows just what he is talking about. The Phillips bill prohibiting the sale of liquors in brothels will cause a revolution for reform in Ohio."

CONFIRMATION AND BAPTISM.

The mode of receiving candidates into the Protestant Episcopal church is beautiful and at the same time impressive. St. Paul's church was filled last Saturday night to its utmost capacity, the occasion being the visitation of the bishop of the diocese of Ohio, the confirmation of candidates for membership and the baptism of the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. DE Q. Donehoo.

Rector Donehoo presented four ladies who were applicants for admission into the church. Mrs. Duff, Mrs. George Smith, and Misses Eva Yake and Pearl McWilliams. The church was beatifully decorated with flowers, and excellent music added to the solemnity of the occasion. Miss Katharine Wright Donehoo was baptised by the bishop after which an eloquent sermon was delivered by that reverend gentleman. The vestments of the bishop and rector, the music and the beautiful confirmation and baptismal services of the Episcopal church, made the occasion one bath solemn and impressive. Bishop Leonard expects to visit this parish again in the early autumn.

An Owl Is the Farmer's Friend.

Of all birds, from the farmers' standpoint, owls are the most useful. They hunt silently and in the night, and are nothing short of lynx eyed cats with wings. The benefit they confer upon agriculturists is most incalculable, and is susceptible of proof. It is well known that owls hunt by night; but it may be less a matter of common knowledge that, like other birds of prey, they return by the mouth hard indigestible parts of the food in the form of elongated pellets. These are found in considerable quantitits about the birds' haunts, and an examination of them reveals the fact that owls prey upon a number of predaceous creatures, the destruction of which is directly beneficial to man.

Of course the evidence gained in this way is infallible, and to show to what extent owls assist in preserving the balance of nature it may be mentioned that 700 pellets examined yielded the remains of 6 bats, 13 rats, 237 mice, 693 voles, 1,590 shrews and 22 birds. These truly remarkable results were obtained from the common barn owl, and the remains of the 22 birds were those of 19 sparrows, 1 greenfinch and 2 swifts. The tawny and long eared owls of our woodlands are also mighty hunters, and an examination of their pellets shows equally interesting evidence.—Cornhill Magazine.

Greek and Roman Stoves.

Warm as Greece and Rome and Egypt are, stoves were made there in the dim and misty vistas of the past. It was not just the pattern used in Chicago at present, but was a metal basin in which charcoal was burned. It sat in the middle of the room, and as the resulting smoke was of the slightest no opening in the roof or elsewhere was necessary. The same implement, still called by its old Greek name of brazier, is still employed in many portions of continental Europe, where it is utilized for heating as well as cooking.

But the progressive Romans improved on that and made a hypocaust. It was the germ of the present furnace. It was made under the house in a little cellar prepared for it, and the heat was conducted to the rooms and baths through crevices left in the floor and lower portions of the wall. Later flues were provided, conducting heat to any portion of the house. In some of the old Roman villas in England the remains of these old time furnaces are still found.—Chicago Herald.

A Remarkable Phenomenon.

On Thursday, March 19, 1719, there appeared at London, about 8 o'clock at night, a "sudden great light moving after the manner but more slowly than a falling star. It started from a point below Orion's belt, then lying in the southwest, and went upward instead of downward like a falling star. Its size, according to the testimony of numerous observers in Spain, France, Ireland, Holland and some parts of Germany, as well as those who saw it in London and all over England, was about that of the full moon. It was of whitish color, with an eye in the center as blue as the most azure portion of a June sky after a thunder storm. It went straight upward in its course until out of sight, leaving a track of fiery red sparks in its wake."—St. Louis Republic.

Reason for Gratitude.

"I even once read a grateful defence of Captain Kidd, the pirate."

"But you don't know the circumstances under which it was written?"

"No."

"He boarded a vessel where everybody was seasick. He gave the usual order, 'Your money or your life.' Everybody felt so thankful at the prospect of being put out of their misery that they one and all refused the money. He accordingly hung them, and the captain, who was spared, was so thankful to be spared their complaints that when he got on shore he wrote the article."—St. Paul Globe.

Their Point of Difference.

Kate—Such an owl as you are! Why can't you be talkative, like Tom Ratleton? Such a difference as there is between men!

Fred—There's only this difference, my dear girl: I think and say nothing; Tom talks and says nothing.—Pittsburg Bulletin.

ELECTRIC SPARKS.

It is reported that an English chemist has discovered a practical substitute for platinum in the manufacture of incandescent lamps.

By a new device pieces of metal may be shaped with rapidity by being forced under dies while rendered soft or plastic by an electric current.

English telephone charges are graded according to distance from the central exchange, and range from forty dollars a year for half-mile circuits to seventy dollars for mile circuits.

As a pendant to the opening of telephonic communication between Paris and London, preparations are being made for creating similar facilities of intercourse between Berlin and Vienna.

At the coming Frankfort electrical exhibition a large balloon will be sent up. The power sending up and maintaining it will be electricity, which will be obtained from a large dynamo on the ground. A telephone will connect the passengers with those on terra firma.

A new German scheme: An electric apparatus supplies a strong light, which attracts insects and moths. A suction fan, worked by the electric current, draws them in when they approach the light and carries them into a small mill, also worked by the electric current, where they are ground up and mixed with flour, and are thus converted into poultry food of excellent quality.

The number of lieutenants in the British navy will be increased to the authorized strength of 1,000 by the end of 1895.

Her subsidiary armament includes twelve quick firing guns, eight mitrailleuses and four torpedo launching tubes.

ATCHISON PHILOSOPHY.

No man ever regretted doing the best he could.

The greater the fool the louder a man has to talk to argue with him.

If men are fools it is because they will not observe. There is enough in observation to make every man wise.

If you are foolish through prejudice, people will not know it, and think you are foolish because of lack of sense.

When a man's eyes and his tongue agree you may know he is either telling the truth or that he is a very accomplished liar.

The friends that people make when they are young are the most worthless, and the ones who make the greatest impression on their characters.—Atchison Globe.

Katie Got the Book.

Katie was going to bed after a day of toil minding her sick and maimed dolls—chronic invalids all of them—and her beautiful duck, the one old quacker that traveled with the hens because he had no better company. The robin that had been watching her out of the corners of his bright eyes, as he ran over the lawn and listened to her prattle, was asleep already with his head under his wing, and Katie's hung heavily on mother's shoulder as she was undressing her. "Now I lay me" had been said, with many yawns in between, and mamma's pet had been tucked in snugly; but just as the sleepy eyes were closing she sat suddenly bolt upright.

"Mamma," she said, "I want Johnnie's picture book—that with the lambs."

"Hush, Katie!" said her mother, the least bit wearily, for the little feet and the little tongue had never ceased going one moment all day. "Now we will go to sleep."

"But, mamma," and the big eyes pleaded earnestly, "can't I have Johnnie's picture book this once?"

"Not tonight, dearie; it is too late."

"Mamma," said Katie, sitting up very straight and looking very solemn indeed, "I heard a story of a little girl—she was a good little girl—that asked her mamma onst when she was put to bed for the picture book with the lambs, and the mamma told her she couldn't have it, and—and"—the baby voice fell to an awed whisper and the eyes grew very big—"in just—about—two—minutes—she was dead!"

"My, Katie! And what killed her so quick?"

"Because," said Katie with conviction, "because she didn't get the book."

She got it, and in five minutes was asleep with it in her arms.—Harper's Young People.

Wanted to Know.

Few men were ever fonder of news and gossip than was old Jerry Clisbee. Despite this fondness, however, Jerry was not a talker, and rarely took part in conversation other than to ask an occasional question about some point of special interest. One day Jerry's brother William, who lived some miles away, came to visit him. William had his right hand heavily bandaged, and this fact, of course, required an early explanation.

"Burnt it 'most off 't the fire t' other night," said William. "Ye see, old 'Square Dean's barn got afire, 'n' I went with the rest, but 'twan't any use, 'bout everything was burnt. If I wuz the 'square I'd give that boy sech a lickin' 't he couldn't stan'."

"What for?" asked the interested Jerry.

"Why, fur settin' the barn afire," was the reply; "but there! I forgot ter tell ye 'bout that part of it. Ye see the square's boy—great dough head—he found an owl settin' on the ridge pole, and so, of course, he had ter shoot at it.

"Wal, the barn winder was open, 'n' the gunwad went right inter the haymow, 'n' 'twan't five minutes afore 'twas all a-blazin'. Everybody turned out, and we got out the old hoss, 'n' then Bill Treat said"—and so the old man went on with a long story, giving every detail of what was done, said and thought by each one who was present at the fire.

When at last the story was ended old Jerry remained for several minutes silently meditating on what he had heard; then he suddenly looked up and gravely asked, "Did ye say whether the boy killed the owl?"—Youth's Companion.

Girls Like to Be Kissed.

A young society man who moves in the younger circles told something out of the usual run the other day. He is a handsome fellow, tall and erect, and a prime favorite among the girls.

He said that he attempted to kiss a pretty girl, and just as he got his arms around her slender waist and was about to kiss her she said if he dared she would scream.

Not wishing to have a scene, which such an action would cause, he withdrew his arm and resumed his seat at the other end of the sofa. In an instant the pretty girl said, "Oh, I thought you were braver than that."

She, however, obstinately refused to let him kiss her.

In a couple of days he called on another girl. He wanted to kiss her, but she likewise threatened to scream if he should attempt it. He thought he would profit by his former experience and paid no attention to the warning.

He kissed her—she screamed; her mother came in and demanded an explanation. The girl came to his rescue, however, and said a mouse was in the room, and she screamed as it ran across the floor. Furthermore, by saying the young man had gallantly tried to catch the mouse, she explained his blushes to the mother's satisfaction.—Louisville Commercial.

English Friendly Societies.

The returns of some of the large friendly societies for 1890 are now coming in, and notwithstanding the increased expenditure caused by the influenza epidemic in the early part of the year, the figures in most cases show large increases, both in members and funds. The Ancient Order of Foresters, numerically the largest, with its 700,000 members, added 17,587 to its number and £159,303 to its funds, bringing the reserve capital up to £4,500,000. This society appears to be rapidly "leveling up" its actuarial deficiency, the returns showing that a proportion equal to 73.4 of its members are now paying graduated contributions according to age, as against 59.5 five years ago.

The Manchester Unity of Old Fellows comes slightly behind the Foresters in respect to numbers, but occupies far and away the front rank of all societies in wealth, its invested capital reaching the magnificent amount of £7,350,000.

The Hearts of Oak, the largest centralized society without branches, has been advancing of late years by leaps and bounds. Its annual report shows that in 1890 it added 10,000 to its membership, which now numbers 140,000, and £76,000 to its funds, totaling its reserve capital up to £1,157,518. This society admits no one to its membership over thirty years of age, and is chiefly recruited from the ranks of small shopkeepers, clerks and skilled artisans.

In the aggregate these three societies total up an adult membership of 1,500,000, with 141,000 juvenile members and a gross invested capital of over £13,000,000.

The great burial collecting societies constitute quite another class, at the head of which stands the Prudential, with assets worth £12,000,000, and which claims to have 9,000,000 policies in force. The Prudential is a joint stock limited company, which began with a capital of £2,500 about forty years ago. A few years since this grew to £200,000. According to a statement recently made by Sir Herbert Maxwell in the house of commons the shareholders in 1887 received dividends equal to 400 per cent. on the original capital, besides bonuses amounting to £999,600.—St. James' Gazette.

A Railroad Man's Record.

C. P. Burton, of Aurora, Ills., challenges the country to match the following record: J. L. Watkins is the veteran ticket agent of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy at Mendota, Ills., and has been for thirty years. The greater portion of that time he has spent in the office, acting as night agent as well as day. Although in the midst of railroad trains, coming in contact daily with the turmoil incident to that rushing life, he has never stepped on a train in the years he has been agent until Tuesday, when he rode to Aurora and thence to Wheaton, and he was mad all the way. He had been subpœnaed as a witness at Wheaton and was obliged to go. He had expected at some future time to take a vacation, and thought he would ride on a railroad train when he got ready, but he had not intended that his first ride in years would be forced.—Chicago Tribune.

Settling Scores Posthumously.

Annie Kline, colored, weighing 350 pounds, died in Chicago the other day. It is averred that before departing this life she expressed an intention to "ha'nt" some surviving enemies. Be that as it may, Jennie Cook, a neighbor, declares that soon after the funeral, while she was passing the deceased's former abode, Miss Kline appeared at the window, robed not in regulation white, but in sable, and demanded the liquidation of a grocery bill. Jennie, in affright, appealed to the officer on the beat. The policeman reports that when he visited the house the ghost remarked: "Mulcahey, beware!" and threw a brick at him. There are those who are inclined to doubt that Miss Kline has materialized.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A PIONEER'S DEATH

The Venerable Abram Lucas Dies at His Home North of the City.

One of the oldest pioneer residents of Marion county passed away Saturday, shortly before midnight, in the death of Abram Lucas, who resided several miles north of Marion. Mr. Lucas died of heart failure, after a sickness of about two months. He was 78 years of age, and the active portion of his life had been spent in this county, in which he became one of the most successful farmers and was considered a thorough business man. He was a highly esteemed gentleman and the father of a large and respected family of children.

The funeral services of deceased occurred this afternoon at his late home, being conducted by Rev. R. Wallace, of the M. E. church of this city. The remains were brought here and placed in the cemetery vault.

The Ohioan Wanted to Sleep.

Sunday evening two young men retired in one of the principal hotels and went to sleep. One of these guests was from Ohio, the other, a genuine frontiersman from South Dakota. They slept until 2 a. m. Sunday, when awakened by a couple of roistering youths who occupied an adjoining room. The youths shouted and sang until guests all around commenced to protest, and then they shouted and sang all the louder.

The Dakota man rang for a porter, and sent him to quiet the unruly youths, but with no effect. Then the Ohioan arose, tied a suspender around his waist, rolled up the sleeves of his nightshirt and walked to the door whence came the riotous sounds. He knocked, and one of the fellows opened it. The Ohio man didn't stop to talk. He charged into that room, belted one youth in the neck, knocking him on top of the bed. Quick as a flash he seized the other and hurled him bodily across the first. Then he pounded their heads together while he regained his breath, and told them that if they woke him up again he would come in and throw both of them through the window.

He slept in peace until breakfast time. —Philadelphia Press.

Janauschek as "Meg."

The grand and justly famous Madame Janauschek, who is without question or doubt the greatest living tragic actress of the day, has been secured for a representation at Music Hall in Marion of her great romatic drama, "Meg Merrilies," which will be rendered on Tuesday evening. The superlative greatness of this most gifted woman is so far above criticism that language is bankrupt in words to express the subtle grandeur of her finished art—so marvelously natural in every detail that the pen but weakly essays a description of her performances. Her many and prolonged engagements in Boston, Chicago, New York and Cincinnati have risen to the rank of undisputed triumphs and ovations never yet equaled in the annals of the profession.

Hand Mangled.

William Nussance, an employe at the planing mills of Bryan & Field, met with a very painful accident this morning. He was working at a jointing machine, in the shop and he let his left hand slip between the apparatus that form the joints, tearing the ends of the first three fingers almost from the hand. He was taken to Dr. Sweney and upon investigation it was found necessary to amputate the two middle fingers of that hand.

Chinaman Saved from a Mob.

DENVER, May 4.—At 10 o'clock last night the police were summoned hastily to West Denver, where a mob was in the act of lynching a Chinaman named Wing Lee. The neighborhood has been unhealthy of late, and an examination was last night made of the cellars occupied by several Celestials. The filth and stench was frightful, and this so enraged the people that they procured a rope and but for the timely arrival of the patrol wagon would have hanged the Chinaman. The crowds refused to disperse and a guard has been placed at the wash house.

The river was too high and the wagon upset and William son and the baby were drowned. Mrs. Williamson stayed in the wagon box and was rescued. The bodies were recovered about an hour later.
